National Support School designated by

National College for Teaching & Leadership

Hungerhill is offering Year 7 parents/carers the opportunity to attend four free training sessions with their child, which focuses on how we teacher maths.

You will get the opportunity to:

- find out what happens in Year 7
- go at your pace (the sessions are for all abilities)
- learn in a friendly and non-judgemental environment
- learn with your child to see how they are taught and how you can support them at home
- have fun and build on your own skills

Venue: Maths block at Hungerhill School

When: 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th September

Time: 3.15 - 3.30pm - refreshments
3.30 - 4.30pm - maths session

Session 1: Overview of syllabus

- An examination of the Year 7 scheme of work.
- An opportunity to participate in interactive activities, similar to students' experience in lessons.

Session 2: Problem-solving

- An overview of the new, higher expectations, and the impact it will have on students.
- An explanation of how, as parents/carers, you can help with maths at home.
- The completion of a problem-solving task in groups.

Session 3: Home Learning

- The sharing of strategies for helping students with their home learning, including how to navigate useful websites and online resources.

Session 4: What would make a difference?

- An opportunity to explore specific areas of maths that parents/carers would like to revisit, with a focus on how they are taught by secondary teachers at Hungerhill.

To reserve a place for you and your child, please fill in the form below and return it to school.
